School Addition Approved

Preliminary plans for an estimated $370,000 in additional facilities at Carson High School, 22328 S. Main St., have been approved by the Los Angeles City Board of Education.

In addition, the board authorized the architectural firm of Janich, Lusby and Associates to proceed with final working drawings on the project which is designed to handle increasing enrollment.

Superintendent of Schools Jack P. Crowther said the two buildings will add eight general classrooms, one large classroom with folding partitions, one art crafts room, one drafting room, an upholstery shop, student lockers, and sanitary facilities to existing facilities.

After final plans are approved by the school board, they must be submitted to the State Office of Architecture for final approval before a contract may be awarded.

Funds for the project were approved by district voters as part of last year's $189.5 million school bond issue.

Plan to Help Prisoners Get Education Blocked

Strong opposition by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn has blocked a move to allow county jail prisoners to attend college as part of the "work-furlough" program.

"This is carrying a good thing too far," Hahn said. "It could lead to the convicted campus agitator being allowed to return to his campus during the day while serving his sentence."

Hahn strongly supports the original furlough program which allows prisoners convicted of non-violent crimes to keep their regular jobs, maintain their families, and keep them off welfare.

The work-furloughees spend their day at work and the nights and weekends at Biscailuz Center.

The program is administered strictly by the Probation Department.

Currently, about 120 inmates are on work-furlough, each returning $4 a day to the County from their wages for "room and board."

"Any application of the work-furlough program to education should be in vocational training and basic skills," Hahn stressed.

Start of something big

What makes it big? You do. By saving regularly... at Great Western Savings... where you earn the highest interest in the nation on insured savings.

How big is big? Try this on for size. Suppose you saved $100 a month and earned 5% compounded daily for 13 years and 11 months. You would save $16,700—and earn $7,452 in interest—for a grand total of $24,152. From that day on, you could withdraw $100 a month—for the rest of your life. Your children could do the same. And their children, too. In fact, at 5% compounded daily, your account would pay interest of $100 a month forever—without ever touching the $24,152 you saved.

When should you make the big start? Today. We'll help you set a New Year's goal and reach it. For nearly half a century, it has been our pleasure to help hundreds of thousands of savers make it big.

5%/$.13% PASSBOOK SAVINGS ACCOUNT—Because we compound daily, our current annual rate of 5% pays you 5.13% when maintained a year. Funds earn from day received, or from the 1st when in by the 10th. You also earn to date of withdrawal, payable at quarter's end, on funds held 3 months or longer. 5.25% BONUS INTEREST ACCOUNT—Pays you a bonus of .25% per year on savings of $1,000 or more (in multiples of $1,000) maintained 36 months or longer.
